Dedicated to Exposing Unsubstantiated Science Claims

Unprecedented Time-Critical Opportunity to Fight Against Undirected Naturalism

The "Programming of Life" (see Christian reading Guide link on www.djgo.info) book notes on page 56 "Because of many recent findings, with many scientists now questioning the validity of neo-Darwinism as evolution's mechanism, the next edition of this book may relegate more of neo-Darwinism to Appendix F, as a historical footnote. 'A wave of scientists now questions natural selection's role though fewer will publicly admit it' [Maz10p20]." On a nearly daily basis, more papers are being published and conferences being held on what natural scenario should replace Darwinism as "TRUTH," since Darwinism doesn't fit the observations. Be assured that the naturalists will agree on something soon as a void is opening up and needs to be filled. The leading candidate is the "Extended Synthesis" that incorporates all known scenarios as evolution's cause to replace Darwinism. This would be much more difficult to show that it doesn't work as it is designed to be flexible. If a particular scenario is shown not to work, there would be more that supposedly "could" work, and more scenarios can be added as needed to "extend" coverage.

If people who don't hold that evolution is the source of all species don't act quickly, the new scenarios will soon become entrenched in science. Because of the realization that Darwinism doesn't work, education at all levels will be in need of revision (new biology textbooks, for example). This required change provides a unique opportunity to make opposition voices heard. We need to "be as shrewd as snakes and as innocent as doves" [Mt 10:16]. We need to discredit DARWINISM while most people still equate EVOLUTION with DARWINISM, as has been taught as scientific truth for the past 50 years. It is important to not bring the Bible into the scientific argument, as that basis would (rightly) be dismissed as being religious. The science is available to debunk Darwinism from science alone (PoL highlights that evidence). Please note that "micro-evolution," due to genetic changes within a species is accepted as verified fact by all scientists, but such changes have NEVER demonstrated a net increase in functional information that would be required to form a "higher" species. The statement "evolution is wrong" can be disproved since it includes micro-evolution.

I have sent President Obama a PoL book, letters (now "open letters"), and a flyer highlighting the major reason that "The quality of our math and science education lags behind many other nations" (links to flyer & letters at www.ussci.info). Many times connected to presentations to Christians on Science and the Bible or Creation/Evolution, people have indicated that as soon as evolution is presented as the cause of something, their brains shut down (and the program goes off). This leaves most Christians in a state of scientific ignorance, and completely uninterested in pursuing science as a field of study and unprepared to stave off the onslaught in the battle for our (especially our children's) minds. In our nation that was established on Biblical truth, we are much more susceptible to adverse effects of naturalism than other countries (e.g. atheistic Chinese have no problem accepting naturalism). In a letter to President Obama I note that "the constant barrage of unsubstantiated speculations portrayed as the truth for the origin of life and species has turned people off toward science. We are now seeing the results of that relentless barrage of pseudo-science of the past 50 years, with the low interest in science. The USA is very susceptible to adverse effects from these unsubstantiated pronouncements because of our nation's foundational principles, with most citizens considering themselves people of theistic faith. Certainly it would not be appropriate to twist science to be compatible with any theistic religion, but it is likewise not appropriate to twist science to attempt to rule out any reality beyond matter and energy."

With the US House of Representatives under Conservative control, there are possible cuts to programs supporting unsubstantiated speculations that have wasted considerable taxpayer-funded resources. I sent information packages to the many Senators and Representatives and plan to send packages to the remaining Congressmen. Ideally, unproven speculations would no longer enter the education picture, unless used to develop critical thinking skills by objectively examining science from conflicting viewpoints. This model of education would prepare students to develop the science mindset that will help lift our nation to a leadership position. If the Darwinian faith is presented as unassailable truth, no taxpayer funds should be used to support it, just as such funds shouldn't be used to promote other faith-based scenarios such as creationism.

This endeavor needs involvement by others and considerable prayer support for wisdom and open doors. The PoL video (or highlights) can be viewed free on-line (at djgo.info links). Quantities of PoL books for education can be obtained for cost reimbursement (under $2/book for a case) if distributed without profit (neither my publisher nor I profit from these distributions).
